

Terms and conditions and privacy policy:

- Jaber Immigration Consultancy, represented by Its CEO, Alaa Jaber, a Registered Canadian Immigration Consultant (RCIC), is a private company that charges a fee for its services. Clients inside Canada can seek help from non-profit organizations for their immigration applications without a fee.
- Jaber Immigration Consultancy does not offer services to sanctioned countries.
- Confidentiality:
All information and documents reviewed by the IRCC, required by IRCC and all other governing bodies and used for the preparation of the application will not be divulged to any third party, other than agents and employees of the IRCC, without prior consent, except as demanded by the council or required under the law.
- Refund policy
The Client acknowledges that the government, not the RCIC, has discretion over granting a visa and the time required to process this application.

However, if the application is denied due to an error or omission by the RCIC or professional staff, the RCIC will refund all professional fees collected.
- The decisions made on clients' immigration applications are under the sole discretion of the IRCC.
